Grammar

In French, the order of the words in statements can be different to English.

Example

C'est dix heures et midi.

Which means... It is ten hours and a half.

So... It is half past ten.

Speaking and listening

Some letters and sounds are pronounced differently to French. That means they sound differently when we speak and hear them.

"oi" in French makes the "wa" sound.

"in" in French makes the "an" sound.
